How to use Soka Bud hairstick?

Take your hairpin to secure the bun weave it through multiple layers of hair until it touches the skin at the top of your head. Slide your hair stick through your bun to hold it in place. The Soka Bud Hairstick best suits long and thick hair. It's long and curved shape allows it to wrap and support a lot of hair in one short sweep.

What is a tapioca hairstick?

The Tapioca Hairstick specifically suits the longest and thickest of hair types. It's large upper body and long length allows it to support and hold a lot of hair. The indentation at the top of the hair stick is designed to hook and help secure hair in place. Available in sustainably sourced Teak and Rosewood.

How do you use a hair stick?

Use the hair stick to secure the top of the plait. Weave your hair stick it through multiple layers of hair until firmly in place. We have more styles for hairsticks that are specifically for shorter hair lengths. Due to its slender shape, the Banana Leaf suits finer hair types and medium to short lengths.

How do you put a hairstick on a bun?

Take your hairpin to secure the bun, by weaving it through multiple layers of hair until it touches the skin at the top of your head. Slide your hair stick through your bun to hold it in place. The Taro Hairstick echoes the form of traditional hairpins in its design.

Are hair sticks easy to use?

Using hair sticks needn't be intimidating, creating hairstyles with them is actually very easy to do and can be mastered with very little practice. The result is always a style that only looks complicated and is more elegant by far than any you can create with any other type of hair jewelry.

How do you tighten a hair stick?

Once the lock of hair is on the stick, lever the stick by swinging it in a half circle until it points back in the proper direction, and continue the sewing motion to secure the bun as outlined above. Levering the stick with the lock wrapped around it effectively tightens the loop of hair around the hair stick!
